Passencens arriving in Hongkong, or any other persons who may desire to conault the files of local, China, Japan, American, English, Indian or Australian newspapers, are invited to call at the "UHINA MAIL" Office, where over sixty newspapers, dailies and weeklies, from these countries, are now filed for reierence.

gar The delivery of the China Mail is commenced from the Office as soon after 7 p.m. as is practicable, and it should he completed in the upper terraces at about 8,30 p.m. Subscribers frequently receiving their paper after this time should send in complaints to the Manager. In some cases which have come to our knowledge the house servants leave the papers lying about in their quarters for a time after they are delivered. Subscribers living at the Peak or at Kowloon can obtain their papers at this Office at 8 a.m., or from their compradores, to whom, on request, they will be sent over night. As the publication of the China Mail takes place much earlier than formerly, its delivery at the extreme East and Western limits of the Colony should be completed at a reasonable hour in the evening.

HONOKONG, SATURDAY, JULY 12, 1884.

THE Protestant religion does not appear to be in a flourishing condition in this Colony Exclusive of the Seamen's Church at West Point, Hongkoug possesses two Protestant places of worship for foreigners. One of these is likely to have a prolonged struggle for existence when the Government grant is withdrawn at the termination of the incumbency of the present pastor, the other has decided to close its doors on 12.40 p.m.-Meeting of Shareholders of the Sist of next month. The smallness of the amount of interest taken in the Protestant religion here is demonstrated by the attendance of residents meetings for disposing of the business of these two religious establishments. The recent meeting of the seat-holders of the Union Church, at which the import of resolution for closing this place of worship was carried, was attended by

From Symes & Co., Pharmacentical Chemists, Medical Hall, Simla, January 5. 1880. To J. T. Davenport, Esq., 33, Great Russell Street, Bloomsbury, London .-Dear Sir, we embrace this opportunity of congratulating you upon the wide-spread reputation this justly-estgemed medicine. Dr. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne, has earne for itself, not only in Hindostan, but all over the East. As a remedy of general utility, we much question whether a better is imported into the country, and we shall be glad to hear of its finding a place in every Anglo-Indian home. The other brands, we are happy to say, are now rele gated to the native bazaars, and, judging from their sale, we fancy their sojourn there will be but evanescent. We could multiply instances ad infinitum of the extraordinary efficacy of Dr. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne in Diarrhoea and Dysentery, Spasms, Cramps, Neuralgia, the Vomiting of Pregnancy, and as a general sedative, that have occurred under our personal observation during many years. In Choleraic Diarrhoea, and even in the more terrible forms of Cholera itself, we have witnessed its surprisingly controlling power. We have never used any other form of this medicine than Collis Browne's, from a firm conviction that it is decidedly the best, and also from a sense of duty we owe to the profession and tie public, as we are of opinion that the a bestitation of any other than Collis Browne's is a deliberate breach of faith or the Protestant religion must be at a considerable discount in Hongkong, or the Cancasian must be more 'played out bere than we imagined. The financial position of the Union Church is somewhat as follows. On the Blat of and month the establishment will be adout eleven hundred dollars in debt, while the income will not be sufficient to prevent its indebtedness from becoming greater. It is calculated that about 400 seat-holders, which would assure an income of about $300 per month, will be necessary to enable the services to be maintained. Of course we believe that the requisite amount of support will be forthcoming, and that was drowned. the doors of the Church will be kept open. The paster is an able Judging from the Government Astronopreacher. He speaks his thoughts freely, but with an intelligent congregation ike that attending the Union Church this can only be a recommendation. Miserable indeed must be the mental calibre of a person who would have his parson preach on certain defined lines, avoiding all freshness of thought, and never venturing an opinion that had not been cut and dried by the recognised regard their own ideas as infallible, to be going Northwards. to hear views opposed to their own honestly argued. We have in fact never been able to understand why religion should be closed to argument more than any other question of vital interest. It is certainly not doctrines. Bishop Burdon in the four memorable sermons he preached recently in the Cathedral gave some far more commonsense and enlightened views on the subjects with which he dealt than those which have generally been accepted, at all events until recent times. In fact the Bishop showed by those sermons that for himself on religious matters, and that he considers it his duty to preach what he thinks to his congregation. We commend such preaching because we think it is necessary for religion to be progressive, if its influence is to be maintained, as well as other things. People now-a-days demand more liberal. nobler and less superstitions conceptions of divinity than those which satisfied the world centuries ago. Instead of being inculcated, for instance, with a belief in a material Heaven or Hell, which is repugnant to their intelligence, they prefer the pictures of a future spiritual state drawn the other day by the Bishop. Probably religion would have stood in a stronger position than that it at present occupies, if its development in an intellectual sense had been com-

thought or belief in regard to its

The embarrassed condition of the Union Church is no doubt partly owing to the circumstance that many of its leading supporters in a pecuniary way have disappeared from these scenes. Formerly among its congregation were several of the most well-to-do residents in the Colony. Money was also more plentiful all round at that time, and there were few foreigners living at the Peak or at Kowleon. Still the position | Harbour in search of the Kreml non Thursof the Church is not, we trust, so hopeless as the resolution passed at the dismal meeting on Wednesday might lead one to infer. Its preacher is second to none in the Colony. An effort should be made to improve the singing, although we are well aware some members may consider that a place of worship should have no other attraction --- than godliness. If nearly all persons were of the same way of thinking, no objection need be taken to such opinion. But the fact is that people are fond of music, even in church. Our Roman Catholic friends found out this centuries ago, and have made the best use of the discovery. It will also be advisable not to entrust the continued existence of the Church too much to Providence is mightily powerful in cases where it acts, but the parson thrown upon its mercies is ant to become terribly poor. . are afraid, looking at the condition of the churches here, that the European in religion, when compared with communities of the same size in country towns at home. She has grown to be tall, and, although an octoroon, has a complexion of almost perfect whiteness. Her air is long, black and curly. Her teeth shine like two rows of pearls, and are splendidly displayed beneath her thin, a ched upper lip. Mrs Clark avers that 'a thousand people have visited the house. The visitors have been mostly colored people, with a considerable sprinkling of medical practitioners. A few days since a body of thirty-three medical students were mising to return in a few days and bring their notebooks with them. Eight weeks ago a messenger in the shape of a baby girl came to the house of James Clark. It was born to his adopted daughter and presented Later.—There was rioting this evening of Austria and Russia. Servia has accepted a striking freak of nature. Celia Alexander, a doctress of 3727 High avenue, was called in to administer medical attention. Being somewhat superstitious, she is said to have declared that some great fatality was about to befall the family when she viewed the infant. It was a pretty child, with black eyes and black hair, perfectly formed, except in the region of the pelvis. The lower end of the vertebare extended below the trunk of the body and formed a very marked and distinct tail. The appendage measured an inch in diameter at the body and tapered gracefully for a length of four inches, when it ended abruptly with a slight curl and a few strands of coarse hair. Another striking deformity was the double hips which the child possessed. The abnormal pair was like two banks of flesh, in the center of which could be felt a hard, bony substance. Since its birth the little freak has been healthy, notwithstanding its mother has been lying seriously ill.

Macaulay reproaches her with it: 'Cambridge had made them. he said; 'Oxford burnt them.' It should be added that Macaulay was a Cambridge

The University of Oxford was founded in the ninth century by Alfred the Great. and that of Cambridge dates also from the middle ages. England possesses several other universities: London, Durham, Manchester, and others; but they are of modern foundation, and do not enjoy such a reputation as their two time honoured sisters. Oxford and Cambridge are the nurseries of the great men of England, and it would be difficult to say which of the two has produced the greater number; perfect harmony exists between them, and they give each other mutual encouragement in the path of labour and honour. All the clergymen of the Church of England have studied at Oxford or Cambridge. Therefore they are at once well-educated men and gentlemen. They marry and become useful members of society. The young vicar is very much sought after in the higher classes: he has only to choose a girl and throw the handkerchief, and she is his.

The two great Universities appear in publie, once a year, on the Saturday preceding Holy Week, to the enjoyment of the London populace. The Oxford and Cambridge University Boat Race is, after the Derby, the most important event of the year for the betting world. For a week everybody woars, in his button hole, a dark blue (Oxford) or a light blue (Cambridge) ribbon. The contest takes place on the Thames near London. The two boats are each rowed by the eight best carsment of the University, who for months have been in special and hard training.

Here, as in the public schools, the popular heroes are the best oursmen, cricketers, and football players. Oxford and Cumbridge also have contests at football, cricket, and billiards.

The debating societies of the great public schools and universities have formed the greater part of the best orators of England. Canning, Gladstone, and a hundred others, nade their début in the Union. These natherings, which might give a lesson in good order and courtesy to our legislative assemblies, were formerly hold, at Oxford in a little narrow lane, that may still be seen in the neighbourhood of Wadham College, and which is called Logic Lane. There the antagonists used to encounter to discuss important questions of philosophy When they could not succeed in confuting their adversaries, they knocked them down. This way of proceeding was called the armmentum bacidinum. 'It was their method in these polemical debates,' says Addison, 'first to discharge their syllogisms after the manner of Secrates, and afterward to betake themselves to their clubs, till such time as they had one way or other confounded their gainsayers.' This puts one in mind of the time when universities of Europe were divided into Greeks and Trojans. The latter bore a mortal enmity to the Greek language, and Erasmus tell how he had the misfortune to fall one day into the hands of a party of Trojans who heat him and left him in the street for dead

In length these vessels measure 85 ft., and in beam 11 ft., with draught of 5 ft. They are fitted with direct acting compound engines of 450 indicated horse-power, and are capable of attaining an average speed of twenty-one knots, the bunkers being of sufficient capacity to admit of enough coal being carried to feed the engines for seven hours, or half speed for twenty-four hours. The total weight of these craft is 61 tons, and the majority of them have been furnished with the necessary gear to eject Whitehead torpedoes from the bows at a point under the water-line. It is stated that the authorities have under consideration the idea of sending out four or five of these vessels-at the conclusion of the Reserve Squadron cruise-for service in the Red Sea and Nile during the expected operation n the Soudan next autumn.
